Every five years the Isle of Man chooses a Chief Minister (CM). Well that is not quite correct, because it’s the 24 newly elected MHKs that elect the Chief Minister. Two candidates have been nominated to be CM - Dr Allinson MHK and Mr Cannan MHK.

In a live debate the public can hear them explain their policies and their vision for the future of the Isle of Man. After a brief introduction by each candidate, the audience will be given the opportunity to raise questions with them.

Roger Tomlinson of PAG:

Five years ago we held a similar CM Hustings meeting and it was a huge success. Being live and not confined to a studio setting, the audience can not only hear fine words but also judge the body language of the candidates. We hope the the audience will submit them to a rigorous examination. It is not often that the people get such an opportunity.

We are pleased that Paul Moulton has agreed to chair the discussion and questions.
